From Rockin' 9 to Rustic Grub: New Owners Take Over Café at Sale Barn

Rockin' 9 Grill at the Woodward Livestock Auction had long been a beloved staple for locals, offering hearty meals to both ranchers and visitors. When the longtime owner decided to close the doors, Trinity Moore, a Rockin' 9 cook of over eight years, quickly teamed up with Angelina Glitsch, a long-time co-worker and friend.

The pair transformed the space into Rustic Grub and Grill, continuing the tradition of serving the Woodward community at the Woodward Livestock Auction but with a fresh, new energy. Their quick decision to take on the business was driven by a deep connection to the area, and a shared love for the people who had supported them over the years.

"We're making dreams come true," Moore said. "It feels great to be able to offer a new chapter while honoring the history of this place."

Rustic Grub and Grill aims to preserve the familiar, welcoming atmosphere that has made the sale barn a popular gathering spot, while offering a menu that blends daily specials with comfort food favorites.

"We are excited to build something fresh while honoring what came before us," Glitsch said.

With their deep roots in the community, Moore, Glitsch, and their team are dedicated to making Rustic Grub and Grill a staple in Woodward for years to come.
